PARKERISMS

PARAGRAPHS, POLITICAL, PERSONAL, PRACTICAL, PERSUASIVE AND PERTINENT

(By Samuel Parker)

When Lieutenant-Governor Eshleman climbed out of the chair of the president of the senate, where he can only vote in case of a tie, and the tie was framed up and awaiting his vote in a clear cut bill between the wet and dry forces, as a "legislator" he took the floor and prefaced with a stump speech the wet vote he was about to give. Had he remained in his seat and voted without the speech it would have been better. As it is, the temperance people have lost all confidence in him while everybody connected with the liquor trade is carrying a smile like a full moon.

The shouting section of the G. O. P. should not wear out all their brass band machinery in jubilation that the big majority given for Mayor Thompson (Republican) guarantees the return of the G. O. P. to control of the state next year. That this may be so, may be a consummation most devoutly to be desired, but anyone living in Chicago for nearly forty years knows that there is no party politics in a city election to forecast party results for the state.

In order to ascertain the truth of the following Bible facts, better begin and read the old book through. Namely, 21st verse, 7th chapter of Ezra contains all the letters of the alphabet except the letter "j." The longest verse is 9th of the 8th chapter of the book of Esther and the shortest is 9th verse 11th chapter of gospel of St. John.

Within a week past I saw in print a statement that more liquor was consumed in Kansas than if its use was regulated by license. Was this in any sense true? The party making it would lie awake nights to make other states prohibition. It excites to laughter to see how largely some people attempt to draw on the credulity of others.

Shall we reach a point soon where at a vote will be estimated as a marketable product and be quoted as wheat, pork, potatoes, sugar—as worth so much today? We are traveling that way pretty fast lately. Only two or three years ago whole townships in Ohio were indicted and many sent up for selling their manhood. And the mayor of Terre Haute (Indiana) and a big bunch of associate rascals bought votes enough to elect themselves. Send them on to the state prison if possible.

Jess Willard streaks across the country receiving an ovation that stops for a time criticism of the president or interest in the war. This glory goes to him, not because Jess "knocked a nigger out," but because as they say the nigger was such a vile, base, brutal, unmoral man. What a picture—toasting Jess as a moralist for lickin' a nigger for being so mean!

We are not yet prepared to abandon the primary method of nominating judges and return to the old caucus and convention system, where regardless of number of delegates or size of the convention we know the entire machinery is worked by two or three men. All this talk of "long tickets," "costly elections," etc., is the wail of the bum element in politics, who desire to return to their old mischievous methods. The primary method may be expensive, but the people want it; the people pay the bills and that settles it.

The California general assembly, composed entirely of men, has passed a law allowing women to act as jurors. One woman in certain cases and two women in certain others. This deciding by act how many and in what cases a woman may be a juror is an unwarranted assumption on the part of legislators of the male persuasion. A woman is now a citizen with all the rights belonging to a voter. The constitution fixes the status of a voter and the qualifications of jurors.

Picture gallery, a very little mule, a big load of lumber, a German driver a little off on the language and a "smart Alec" American boy: "Say, dietcher, that is a very big load for such a little horse. How does he manage to pull it?" "You wants to know how he get along so putty well—dat little mule? I told you. Dot mule mind his own bizniss and dot is more as you does."

In sentencing the mayor of Terre Haute (Indiana) to six years' service in the government prison at Leavenworth and payment of $2000 fine for conspiring to acts of fraud at an elec-

TROPICO ITEMS

SOCIETY MATRONS HONOR THE BIRTHDAY OF MRS. E. J. MORGAN

It has been the annual custom the past few years for several of the society matrons of Tropico to observe each others' birthday anniversaries by celebrating with a dinner party. Sometimes these dinners are given in the evening, when the husbands of the hostesses and honorees are among the guests. Tuesday Mrs. Ernest J. Morgan's anniversary was very charmingly observed at the home of Mrs. Joseph H. Webster on West Park avenue. The table was centered with a bowl of pink Mammam Cochet roses and those who assisted Mrs. Webster in thus observing another milestone in Mrs. Morgan's life were Mrs. A. W. Collins, Mrs. W. C. Wattles, Mrs. Edward M. Lynch and as a special guest, Mrs. Lynch's sister, Miss Dorothy Ward of Berkeley. A large birthday cake, surmounted with several lighted tapers, was accorded the place of honor on the table where the happy honoree, the hostess and guests enjoyed a delicious repast.

Tropico friends are in receipt of a most interesting letter from Mrs. N. D. Burlingham of "Rose Villa," who left for Alaska last June. This interesting writer states that for two months they had but four hours of daylight daily, but at present the sun rises at 7 a. m. and sets at 6 p. m. The weather has been quite delightful the entire winter and though up in the frigid zone, she suffered less from cold than when a resident of the states of New York or Iowa. The three days' celebration of the Potlatch closed the middle of March. Instead of horse or automobile races one of the principal features of the Potlatch was dog racing. Mrs. Burlingham will leave the Land of the Midnight Sun about the first of July for her home in Southern California. Her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Neal and Miss Marie Neal, will remain in Alaska a year longer before returning to California.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Freeman of West Fifth street very pleasantly entertained with a dinner party at their home Tuesday evening. Mrs. Freeman was graciously assisted by her mother, Mrs. N. J. Rowantree, and her sister, Miss Leonora Rowantree. The guests were Mrs. P. F. Pope of Minneapolis, Minn.; Mrs. B. F. Doggett of Los Angeles, Sir Francis and Mrs. Booth of Gardena avenue.

Many are the friends who will be pleased to learn that Mrs. Samuel A. Ayres of North Central avenue is very much improved. A few days since Mrs. Ayres suffered a severe fall which has confined her to her room the past week. Dr. Thompson reports no broken bones, but Mrs. Ayres' right side was very badly bruised. Mrs. Charles E. Mosher and Mrs. Edgar S. Ayres are in constant attendance at the bedside of their mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman C. Bahrenberg of Redlands are spending the week in Los Angeles as the guests of Mrs. Bahrenberg's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Buissert. Later Mr. and Mrs. Bahrenberg will be the guests of Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Bahrenberg of "Twin Pines" on West Park avenue.

Officers and members of Chapter A-H of the P. E. O. of Tropico were the guests of the Glendale chapter at the home of Mrs. Randolph this afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Rice of South Central avenue are enjoying a most delightful sojourn at their beach residence in Venice.

A real treat is coming next Monday afternoon and evening in Mary Pickford in the beautiful story, "Cinderella." Be sure to take advantage of this opportunity to see a fine film at the Palace Grand theater. Ask the children for tickets.

tion, Federal Judge Anderson took occasion to say: "My notion is that the saloon will have to go. I believe the time will come when the people will rise up and smash the saloon, at least as we have it now. The evidence in this case showed that the saloons were the centers of nearly all the corruption in the election at Terre Haute." Contrast this with the apologetic speech of our Lieutenant-governor recently made at Sacramento.

Mayor-Elect Thompson before taking his seat to which he was elected by an almost unbelievable majority, declared with emphasis: "Among my first acts will be to clean the crooks out of Chicago." My countrymen, what a reduction in population awaits the Windy City by the Lake.

GLENDAL SONG BIRDS

YOUNG WOMEN OF ROBINETTE CLUB IN FIRST PUBLIC CONCERT WIN PRAISES

The concert given by the Robinette club of Glendale at the high school auditorium on Tuesday evening was one of the most delightful affairs of the kind ever given in this city and all who were privileged to hear and see the numbers of Tuesday night's program were high in their praise of those taking part, and especially of Mrs. Norma Rockhold Robbins and her versatility as both a soloist and director.

The choruses all went with snap and precision and were highly appreciated.

The opening number, "The Gondolier," by Nevin, sung behind the curtain, made an excellent and effective beginning for the concert. The girls in their pink frocks, as they stepped before the footlights, after the curtain was drawn, made a pretty picture. And when they came out for the "Red, Red Rose" each girl carried a dark red rose, making a vision not soon to be forgotten. The "Wake, Miss Lindy" was one of the best sung numbers. "Miss Nancy's Gown," with its quaint minuet refrain, made a delightful contrast for the bright numbers preceding. The "Lullaby" was perhaps one of the most effective numbers, with the solo part taken by Mrs. Robbins and the violin obligato played by Miss Payne.

Of the soloists all were well received and greatly enjoyed. Miss Smith, a pupil of Mrs. Robbins, dressed in a French-Spanish gown, delighted the audience with her beautiful soprano voice. Miss Duncan as a belle of 1860 brought down the house as she sang with clear enunciation a song of that period, dressed in a quaint gown and carrying a yellow parasol. Mrs. Sherman and Miss Pearson made a wonderful picture as the Venetian gondoliers, singing the "Seranata" of Tosti with true Italian abandon, their voices blending beautifully.

Miss Fowler won her Glendale audience, as she has all others, with her clever readings, and graciously responded to repeated encores. "The Bird in Hand" by Miss Cross, Miss Lewis and Miss Provolt, threw the audience into screams of laughter with those wonderfully silly faces on the backs of their heads, which they turned to the front in the last verse of the song, and they had to respond to repeated demands by their audience for another glimpse of those clever backs.

Miss Lois Naudain's dancing of the "Sailor's Hornpipe" was no small item of pleasure. This child promises well for the future.

The last part of the program, which was an act from the Jhelum River Cycle, given by Mrs. Robertson and Miss Lancaster, was one of the most pleasing features of the evening. These young ladies were made up in real Indian style; no detail being omitted to give a true picture of Indian life, while the stage was converted into a beautiful garden scene. The young ladies showed especial talent in their acting and both have wonderfully fine voices.

Taken as a whole or with each number separately, the concert was one of the finest ever given in Glendale.

GLENDAL HIGH LOSES

The Glendale high school baseball team lost a practice game to the Los Angeles normal school nine on the local field Tuesday afternoon. The score was 18-8. In the words of Coach Wight, "it wasn't a ball game."

Dust was the feature of the game and the pitchers and fielders floundered around. The players on the two teams were so covered with dust when they finished playing the line-up could not be secured.

ORATORICAL CONTEST FRIDAY

Daily rehearsals for the oratorical contest are being held at the high school. The plans for the decorated booths of the various classes are nearly complete and Friday evening will find the high school auditorium in glorious array for this annual event.

Patrons of the school who wish to attend had better secure tickets early as only a limited number can be secured.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The moving pictures which were to have been shown this evening at the high school auditorium under the auspices of the Intermediate Parent-Teacher association, have been postponed until Saturday, April 17th, at which time they will be shown at the above mentioned place.

EAGLE ROCK ITEMS

PERSONAL AND GENERAL NEWS FROM THE CITY OF THE EAGLE

Mrs. L. Moulden of North Central avenue and her house guest, Mrs. M. Kerriek, are at San Diego this week enjoying the exposition.

Miss Louise Walker, who has been a guest for nearly five months of her cousin, Mrs. Stillwell of Grand View avenue, left last week for her home in Ohio. Several social functions have been given in her honor during her visit here.

E. Bailey of Sioux City, Iowa, is visiting his sisters, the Misses Bailey of Grand View avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Willis and son Harry of Pasadena were dinner guests Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. House on East Palm street.

Rev. and Mrs. G. Le Cleve of Rowland avenue entertained Dr. and Mrs. Baird of Los Angeles and their friend, Mrs. M. Wilcox of Iowa, on Sunday.

A young man from the Union Christian Endeavor of Los Angeles was present Sunday evening and addressed the Epworth League. His talk was very interesting.

Dr. Martin Post passed his 80th birthday last week and a reception was held in honor of it at the Mason home. On Sunday morning he occupied the pulpit at the Presbyterian church and delivered a very good sermon on "How Old Art Thou?" Dr. Post is well known and highly esteemed by all his friends. He has been a pastor for over fifty years, but would be taken for a man many years younger as he is still very "hale and hearty."

Miss Amber Young of Rock Glen avenue entertained a number of her little lady friends at her home a week ago Saturday at an Easter party. Easter decorations, games, contests and music were in evidence. Dainty refreshments were served.

A number of the ladies from the Eagle Rock Missionary society of the M. E. church attended the second quarterly meeting of the conference executive board of the Woman's Home Missionary society held Tuesday, April 6th, at the University church in Los Angeles.

A delightful surprise party was given at the Sprague home on Myrtle avenue in honor of Sparks Sprague's fifteenth birthday. Games and music were enjoyed until late, when delicious refreshments were served to the following guests: George Sherwood, Oran Branscombe, Raymond Kolbe, William Taylor, Earl Needham, James West, Elmer Gee, George Sprague, Mr. and Mrs. G. Sprague, Mr. and Mrs. Lee.

An official meeting was held at the Presbyterian church Wednesday evening to select a pastor for the year. Dr. Creswell was chosen. He has been pastor at Pomona for several years and has done splendid work.

A NARROW ESCAPE

Frank Timmons of 805 West Ninth street had a very narrow escape from death Tuesday. He was driving his laundry auto south on Brand during the high wind and as he approached the S. P. crossing in Tropico he failed to see an approaching engine until it was nearly upon him. He clamped on his emergency brake and succeeded in stopping just as the front of the auto projected over the track. The engine brushed the light machine aside, smashing in the front and doing quite a bit of damage, though Mr. Timmons escaped without a scratch. The accident was the more unfortunate as he had recently broken his engine and had a heavy bill of repairs to pay.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

The thirtieth annual convention of Los Angeles county Sunday School association will be held at Alhambra on Monday and Tuesday, April 19th and 20th, 1915.

This convention is thoroughly alive and full of interest from start to finish. There will be many interesting meetings, with good music and addresses by many able speakers, among them such men as Dr. Chas. Edward Locke and Dr. Jas. A. Francis. There will also be banquets and automobile rides and exhibits of the "handwork" from different schools of the county. The convention is a mass convention and each school will send as many as it likes. Entertainment will be furnished to those who cannot return to their homes at night with lodging and breakfast.

A complete program of the two days can be seen at the Evening News office.

CLUB NEWS

ART SECTION LOCAL WOMAN'S CLUB IN CHARGE OF PROGRAM

THE ART SECTION

The meeting of the Tuesday Afternoon club Tuesday was under the auspices of the art section, with Mrs. R. E. Chase chairman, and was a most interesting and instructive affair. The hall was decorated with many roses and the principal speaker of the day was Mrs. T. W. Walker, district chairman of art, who addressed the ladies on "Art in General" and among other things the speaker told of the American artists' exhibits at the Panama-Pacific exposition and the wonderful color scheme of the buildings.

A splendid musical program was given, Miss Susane Wessells rendering several beautiful selections on the violin. Mrs. Frank Arnold sang a delightful Russian number and responded to an encore. Tea and wafers were served by the committee, in charge of Mrs. W. W. McElroy. The resolution adopted recently by the convention in regard to having the Bible read in the public schools, was unanimously endorsed by the Tuesday Afternoon club at Tuesday's session and was discussed quite at length.

The exhibition of china painting given by Mrs. Hearnshaw in the reception room was very fine and the exquisite pieces were much admired by all. The room was beautifully arranged and decked with roses for the occasion.

APPLIED POLITICS

Mrs. Mattison B. Jones spoke to the Sierra Madre club Monday afternoon on the topic of "Applied Politics." This was by special request. Mrs. Jones was a luncheon guest after the meeting at the home of the president, Miss Annis Coffey. Mrs. Kate Waller Barrett, who also addressed the club on her work at the world's fair in emigration, was also a luncheon guest of the president.

Mrs. Jones says she acquired considerable valuable information with regard to the annual flower festival given each year in Sierra Madre and this information will greatly aid in the work of preparing for the flower festival to be given in Glendale soon and which it is hoped to make an annual event for this city.

Mrs. Jones will speak on the same subject, that of "Applied Politics," before the Gardena club this afternoon.

HIGH SCHOOL P. T. A.

The April meeting of the P. T. A. of the Glendale Union high school was held on Tuesday afternoon, the president, Dr. Willisford, presiding. The speaker of the day was Mr. G. F. Taylor, teacher of physics in the Glendale high school, whose splendid address on "Character and Education," emphasized the idea that the principal end and aim of education is the formation of character. Mr. Taylor decried the tendency among students to select the easy subjects rather than those which require that concentration and effort which will develop character.

Miss Florence Heacock delighted the audience with a piano solo. Mr. Taylor and Mr. Morris were appointed as delegates to attend the annual meeting of the first district, to be held in Los Angeles on April 24 at 10:30 a. m.

The next meeting of this association will be held on the afternoon of May 4th and will be the last meeting of the year. At that time the election of officers for the coming year will take place and it is desired that every member be present.

TO SACRAMENTO

Mr. Frederick Baker left on the Owl Tuesday evening for Sacramento in the interests of pending flood control legislation. The bill drawn by Mr. Baker has been reported on favorably by the committee of the legislature and although there is strong opposition from certain interests in Los Angeles, who favor raising the money to carry out this work by special assessment instead of general bond issue, yet the prospects of passing the bill as recommended by the Flood Control association are favorable. Mr. Baker states that it would help secure the passage of the bill if Glendale citizens would write to Senator Wm. J. Carr and Representative Harry L. Wishard on behalf of this bill.

When driving on the public highways, always have consideration for the other fellow. The rights of others should be and must be respected. How prone some drivers of autos and wagons are to keep in the middle of the road when meeting others.

ASSEMBLY PASSES BILL AGAINST VACCINATION

Opponents of compulsory vaccination for school children scored a victory in the lower house of the legislature at Sacramento the other day by passing, 43 to 31, the Gelder bill repealing the present vaccination law. A call of the house was ordered by the speaker to bring in a dozen or more absentees whose votes were needed to give a majority for or against the measure. This procedure kept the house in session until 6 o'clock.

In his argument for the bill Gelder named various malignant diseases which he said had caused the deaths of children and adults who had submitted to vaccination. Opponents of the bill argued that vaccination is a necessary health precaution to prevent the introduction of smallpox into the human system.

MARBLES AS A SCHOOL OF LIFE

To the eyes of the unobservant the sight of a group of boys playing marbles may have no particular interest, says an exchange. But to the philosophical, this incident of daily life may convey some significance. In the colder parts of the United States the sight of boys playing marbles is accepted as one of the fixed signs of spring. Boys almost never play in the autumn. But a few breaths of spring air bring them out. This suggests how humorously fixed the customs of boys are, and quite as inflexible as the dictates of fashion to grown-up man and woman.

It is a study in human nature to watch a group of boys playing marbles. Four out of five boys will do anything to win. The game is not formal enough to set up an umpire, and youngsters of an aggressive and domineering type get their own way. As these boys are not apt to have a very active feeling for justice, might almost always makes right in the marble ring.

Boys with a keen sense of justice are apt to fare rather hard. This feeling of equity is apt to go with a rather sensitive child nature. Boys of this temperament are much more apt to drop out of the ring and refuse to play than defend their rights with their fists.

Thus these little men of a future day get in the marble ring a first foretaste of the wrongs of the wide world. The wise parent encourages his youngsters to stick it out, no matter to what grievances he may be subjected. It's a fine thing to win. It is a still finer thing to suffer abuse and to know how to resent it with dignity and force. It's an even finer thing to suffer wrong and keep good natured over it and await revenge some other day. The marble ring is quite a school of life.—Alhambra Advocate.

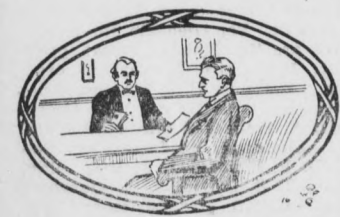

THE LAMB AND MARY REUNITED

Mary had a little lamb
Of which she lost all track;
And many years had passed away
Before she got it back.

Of course the little lamb had grown
Till it was fat and tall;
And though her appetite was large
She did not get it all.

In fact, that she was eating it
Poor Mary never knew;
For she had told the waiter man
To bring her chicken stew.

HIS EXCLUSIVE COSTUME

The costumer came forward to attend to the nervous old beau who was mopping his bald and shining head with a big silk handkerchief.

"And what can I do for you?" he asked.
"I want a little help in the way of a suggestion," said the old fellow. "I intend going to the French Students' masquerade ball tonight, and I want a distinctly original costume—something I may be sure no one else will wear. What would you suggest?"

The costumer looked him over attentively, bestowing special notice on the gleaming knob.

"Well, I'll tell you," he said then, thoughtfully: "why don't you sugar your head and go as a pill?"

MUST MEND ITS MANNERS

Los Angeles is not to be blamed for its desire to extend. Such is municipal instinct. When it can extend so as to benefit the region sought thus to be brought in, the objections to the process, now held here and in other places hereabouts, may be overcome. Communities outside, for the present, are content to remain outside. Before assuming a different attitude, they will have to be supplied with good reasons; in other words, "will have to be shown."

Would their taxes be lighter? Would their public service be better? Would their government be cleaner and more free of scandal? On all these points they will require to be shown. They can't be dragged in willy-nilly.

The item in relation to political cleanliness comes to mind forcibly just now, and its demand for consideration precedes the economic questions involved in other items. At this moment Los Angeles is an unholy spectacle. It has been plunged into a maze of hatreds. Its citizenship must feel that a shame has been brought upon it. Because of what? The chief of police, a man of upright life so far as known and believed, possessing the confidence of the law-abiding; the enemy of crime, alert to extend protection to juvenile offenders, the foe of graft, had an ambition to become mayor. At the announcement came the unloosing of such abuse as only the filthy mind could conceive. He was charged with heinous offenses, being guilty of which would stamp him as unfit for authority or for decent associations, and gutters raked for witnesses. The case is for the courts, but public opinion cannot be suppressed, and it is fair to say that at this writing it is virtually all with the accused. There is a feeling that so far justice has not been done him, that he has been denied his rights; and in the activity of his enemies, official and personal, there is that quality that the judgment cannot distinguish from vindictiveness.

Though this is a Los Angeles affair, it possesses a wider than local interest, because it is an indication of the experience that might await any resident of that city were he to assume to seek the support of the voters. It is not the method that obtains in a community that wishes above all things to retain self-respect. Pasadena has just passed through a local election of importance. There was scarcely an unkind word said, or rule of courtesy broken. The exhibition of Los Angeles methods will constitute a powerful argument against annexation on the part of any region that city is anxious to embrace. Better to be decent and seemly than to be metropolitan. Los Angeles needs to mend its manners. —Pasadena News.

LEGISLATION FOR YOUTH

As prevention is better than cure, child legislation, so-called, is to be encouraged. Under such legislation are grouped the measures that have to do with the welfare of the young. No matter of greater importance could come up for consideration, because to provide youth with safeguards is to safeguard the man and woman of tomorrow. In these bills for child protection society but asks its own protection.

The juvenile court bill has been drawn up with a view to the best public interests. The idea inspiring it is to prevent crime, and to do this through curing the early offender. By the former practice a boy breaking the law was treated about the same as the hardened criminal, often housed with the latter as a cellmate. The inevitable result was that the boy himself developed into a criminal, that the form of his punishment completed his course in the school of iniquity, and that the spark of good in him died. The purpose of the juvenile court is to prevent all this, and to develop the good and not the evil side. Even though comparatively new, the system has vindicated itself a thousand times over.

Regulation of child labor is equally vital. The boy or girl set to tasks too rigorous, held out of school to earn a trifle, and often deprived of good home influences, as well as of the necessities of life, has small chance, and is entitled to better things. The temptation to escape the ills and the weariness of the daily grind often has given the first start downward, the old-fashioned court affording the impetus carrying the unfortunate far towards destruction. Children ought to be kept off the streets at night and particularly conspicuous is the fact that the lads of tender years employed as messengers have found the calling ruinous to body and soul. Society owes to them and to itself the duty of rescue. —Long Beach Telegram.

EASY TO EMPLOY PERSONALITIES

"To employ personalities," said Sidney Smith very wisely, about two hundred years ago, "neither labor nor intellect is required. In this sort of contest the most idle and the most ignorant are quite on a par with, if not superior to, the most industrious and the most highly gifted individuals. Nothing can be more convenient for those who would speak without the trouble of thinking. Close and relevant arguments have very little hold on the passions and serve rather to quell than to inflame them; while in personalities there is always something stimulant, whether on the part of him who praises or blames."

GEORGE REX

John Ruskin says somewhere that his idea of a king is a man who does more work and does it more unselfishly than other men. We believe this to be a true definition, and we believe also that the present king, and we would add queen, of the United Kingdom have done much to raise the kingly office in the estimation of the people. The king in the United Kingdom is, of course, no autocrat. He is the first magistrate of a great democracy. His direct power is slight. "Nihil potest rex nisi quod de jure potest," the law books say, "The King can do nothing saying that which he can do by law," but his indirect influence, when he rises to the full height of kingship, is incalculable. The mother of George III., the princess of Saxe Gotha, was always urging him to be a king, which, in her reading, meant exercise arbitrary power. The good man did his best and failed ignominiously. Nevertheless, as Thackeray so admirably has expressed it, "The heart of Britain still beats kindly for George III.—not because he was wise and just, but because he was pure in life, honest in intent, and because according to his lights he worshipped heaven." That is to say that to some extent he understood the true idea of kingship.

Today another George, his great grandson, occupies his throne during the greatest war which the world has seen since, in his time, Napoleon threatened the liberties of Europe. That great grandson, George V., has already proved himself to be a constitutional monarch of rare intuition, gifted with the ability to give expression to that great saying of Lincoln's, uttered on the field of Gettysburg, "that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth." To this intent the king has been content to guide public opinion along those roads which do not lead into the valleys of politics along other roads which do not lead into the valleys of politics, but rather amidst the mountain tops of ethics, and perhaps never has he spoken at a more timely moment and with a greater perception of the needs of the nation and of humanity, than in taking his place, in his own country, at the head of the great crusade in which the nations of the world are rising against the common enemy—intemperance.

It is quite true that so far this campaign has been designed to meet the demands of a crisis, but it is quite impossible to believe that when the crisis is over any single one of the belligerents will be found willing once more to bow the knee in the temple of alcohol, or to place their necks again under the yoke of the liquor interests. It is said by those who know Russia best that any attempt to reopen the state vodka-shops would lead to a revolution so completely have the people recognized the slavery from which they have escaped. In France men talk of abstinence in a manner which would have rejoiced the heart of the great novelist who wrote "L'Assommoir." In the United Kingdom there is at least an equal necessity for reform. Bodger's whiskey, as Mr. Shaw says, in one of his finest plays, is written in letters of fire across the sky for the debased sleeper on the embankment to read.

The chancellor of the exchequer has always been a sincere friend of temperance. Today he has taken advantage of the situation to enlist the king openly on his side. The letter of Lord Stamfordham, his majesty's secretary, to Mr. Lloyd George, is evidence that the king has realized that the occasion for his example has arisen. The lead of the king has been instantly followed by Lord Kitchener, and the letters to the press have already made it clear that the churches of the kingdom are in perfect sympathy. One discordant note only has been sounded. It comes from the quarter where the uprising is viewed with consternation, and it takes the form of the cynical comment, conveyed in the old Latin medieval proverb, equally well known in its modern English dress,

"The devil was sick, the devil a monk would be;
The devil was well, the devil a monk was he."

If it were really true that, in a great crisis of the nation's fate, the king, the government, and the country's leaders were alike deliberately planning a moral crusade only intended to last until a turn of the tide should permit a safe relapse to Bodger, then we certainly think the morality would all be on the side of Bodger. The maneuver would be so short sighted and so ludicrous as to remind the world of a well known story, told by Mr. Black, in one of his books, of a Scottish fisherman who, caught in a sudden squall, decided for the first time in many years to offer up a prayer. At that moment, however, the keel of the boat grated upon the sand, whereupon the devout man determined not to be beholden to anybody. The Bible declares that humanity asks and receives not because it asks amiss. The theory of righteousness for our own ends, so unblushingly put forward as an explanation of the spirit of temperance now sweeping over the United Kingdom, seems to be very much on all fours with the calculations of Mr. Black's fisherman, and is certainly in the category of prayers not likely to be answered. It is, therefore, fortunate that there is no need to regard it seriously.—C. S. Monitor.

UNIQUE ELECTION

RANDALL ESTABLISHES PRECEDENT—WHITTIER VOTES FOR POSTMASTER

WHITTIER, April 13.—In the first election of the sort ever held in the West, J. S. Todd was chosen for postmaster here today by one vote over Paul Frazer. Eight candidates were on the ballot. Congressman Randall declared he will send the nomination of Mr. Todd to Washington today.

Mr. Randall set a precedent for his district, he declared today, when he determined to leave the question of the Whittier postmastership to the people who receive their mail at the local office. The only strings attached to the election were that the candidates should be Democrats and "dry" ones. Mr. Randall is a prohibitionist and stipulated aspirants must have abstained from drink for eighteen months previous to the election and the winner must remain teetotal while in office.

Of the 3600 persons who receive mail through the local office, 1472 voted. Party lines were disregarded. Congressman Randall watched proceedings all day and tonight declared he is more than satisfied with the experiment.

Special permission of the postoffice department was obtained before the election could be held. It was declared by the congressman that any future vacancies in his district will be filled this way.

The vote was recounted because of the narrow margin by which Mr. Todd won. Much interest attached to the candidacy of Mrs. A. D. Clark, the one woman among the eight aspirants. She finished sixth. The full returns are:

J. S. Todd, 246; Paul Frazer, 245; C. F. Trueblood, 220; D. L. Crane, 198; A. P. Fillpot, 178; Mrs. A. D. Clark, 147; L. H. Denney, 140; D. N. Rogers, 97.

Mr. Todd served four years as a city trustee and is well known here.

GLENDALE GROWS STEADILY

While most cities have been at a standstill the past year, Glendale has been steadily increasing in population, as is proven by the fact that the net gain in gas meters for Glendale for the past year has been 258 meters between April, 1914, and April 1, 1915. From January 1 to April 1, 1915, the net gain in meters has been 44. At the local gas office it was said that a new meter represented about four people. If this be true, the net increase in Glendale's population last year was about 1040.

PRETTY LUNCHEON

Mrs. S. Braden of 1304 Arden avenue entertained twelve friends at luncheon and cards on Wednesday afternoon. The rooms were prettily decorated for the occasion with magnolia blossoms and nasturtiums and the delicious luncheon was served at one. Cards were played throughout the afternoon, the prizes being won by Mrs. Kruse, Mrs. McDougall and Mrs. Harris, and everyone present declared that they had spent a most happy day.

ON THEIR HEADS IT IS

Robert Dunn, war correspondent, owes an explanation to John Reed, war correspondent, both Americans. In the end, the pair of them seem likely to owe an explanation to the people of the United States, because the people in question look with ill favor upon murder, and do not believe that a correspondent in the trenches, killing men for sport, is any nearer to being within his rights than had he chosen a dark alley for the operation.

Dunn tells that while he and Reed were in the German trenches they shot at the enemy; not at their enemy—for they were on honor to be neutral. Seized with the spirit of assassination apparently, Dunn records: "Be it on our heads, we did it. Both fired twice, turn and turn about." Asked by an officer if he "got anything," one is said to have replied, "Call it a couple of Turcos." Then stated with their game, "back to the officers' cave we sloshed, and to bottled beer." What! Nothing stronger than beer to drown the memory of that misdeed?

Dunn and Reed both have stood well. Either they will make clear that this account libels them, or they never will stand well again. If they were shooting Turcos, they were shooting their respective reputations as fit to be representatives of American journalism or any phase of the American spirit. The authenticity of the tale, even though it seems to come with Dunn's signature, will not be accepted yet, and upon the most absolute proof, would be accepted with humiliation and regret.—Long Beach Telegram.

CHINA—OLD AND NEW

At the First Congregational church this evening a most interesting and instructive address will be given on "China, Old and New," by Miss Frances B. Patterson. The lecture will be illustrated by many beautiful lantern slides.

Dr. Francis E. Clark of the Christian Endeavor society says: "Miss Patterson is an interesting, enthusiastic and informing speaker." Dean Eddy of the University of Minnesota in speaking about Miss Patterson says: "A rare treat, both because of the great excellence of the views and the exceedingly entertaining descriptions covering historical localities, temples, architecture and varied social conditions."

The address will commence at 7:45 o'clock. The admission is free. The public is cordially invited.

THIS MAN'S ONLY THOUGHT

"Yes," said the medical specialist as he stood at the bedside of the sick purchasing agent, "I am sure I can cure you."

"What will it cost?" asked the sick man, faintly.

"Ninety-five dollars."

"You'll have to shade that price a little," replied the purchasing agent. "I have a better bid than that from the undertaker."

And so the specialist let him die.

FREAK STORM

Southern California Tuesday was visited by one of the freakiest storms in its history. Wind, rain, hail and even snow characterized what reports from every section of Southern California designate as an almost unprecedented atmospheric disturbance. Glendale was visited by a disagreeable windstorm.

Apparently the weather clerk began his pranks about 3 o'clock Tuesday morning two miles west of Monrovia. Quickly the intermittent combinations of everything in Jupiter Pluvius' repertory journeyed eastward to San Bernardino. After this the whole country was involved.

The disturbance was decidedly spotty, for while .44 of an inch of rain fell at Pomona, only a light sprinkle was reported from Chino. In the former district there was a great cracking of telegraph poles before the onslaughts of the sweeping wind. In Claremont many lines were put out of commission for a time when a high power wire fell on the telephone lines and blew out a battery of fuses.

Between Los Angeles and San Bernardino for fully half an hour traffic on the P. E. was tied up as the result of the storm, all the power going off suddenly all along the line. A motor on a car at Alta Loma was burned out and the freight crew was sent out from Pomona with a relief motor.

At Pomona a downpour of hail accompanied the heavy downpour and for a few minutes the ground was white with particles of ice. In the San Antonio canyon it is reported that the storm reached almost the proportions of a cloudburst.

The string of reasons why one should be an optimist is as long as the mainspring of a Waterbury time-piece.
